THURSDAY NOVEMBER 6, 1890.

Net Results of Tuesday's Elections-It is an avalanche. From all sides come contributions to the Democratic victory of Tuesday. There is nothing sectional about it, and the most absurd fanatic can not charge it to the "suppression of the negro vote," or to "southern outrages." The North, the East, the West, and Northwest have aided the South in breaking away from Republican rule. Haraison's successor.

The store-prices are as nothing to-day The force bill is denounced and the tariff act condemned, and the next House of Representatives will be Democratic by The monopolistic manufacturers are hardfrom sixty to seventy votes. This means ly in the saddle as yet. Then they will be that Mr. REED must retire from the speakership; that partisan legislation must cease and that the pathway is open to the election of a Democratic President,

The Virginia delegation in Congress will be unanimously Democratic for the first time in her history, so far as we can recall at this moment.

New Hampshire and Wisconsin also. New York, Massachusetts, New Hamp shire, and Wisconsin elect Democratic legislatures, which means a gain of a num-ber of United States senators for us.

The Democrats of Ohio increase their membership in the House from five to fourteen out of a total of twenty-one. Mc KINLEY is defeated by a small majority. Into his district the Republicans poured hundreds of thousands of dollars and Warwick had to fight against boodle, local pride, and the great weight of speakers of national reputation like Brains and REED. It seems but retributive justice since the McKinker bill has killed scores of candidates that its author should now die, po-

Cannon, who is notorious as the filthymouthed member from Iilinois, and who was indecent beyond all parliamentary precedent in his discussion with Mr. Mc. Apoo. acknowledges that he is defeated. ROWELL, who is chairman of the House Committee on Elections, has been very properly repudiated by his constituents.

Our telegraphic dispatches are all full of good Democratic news this morning.

They afford a very cheerful sequel to the proceedings of the last session of Congress.

What effect will the national Democratic victory of Tuesday have upon the future conduct of the two parties? Will the Republican party acknowledge that the peo ple disapprove of its policy and make haste o accommodate itself to the new condition of things, or will that mischievous gang of sectionalists and monopolists try to carry out next winter the programme which at the last session of Congress the Republican Senate decimed or omitted to execute? We must recollect that the baffled conspirators will continue to control both branches of Congress during the next session, and that the force bill, which has already been passed by the House of Representatives, could easily be passed by the Senate if the Republican senators should desire to see it become a law. We mus not forget that the men who cheated Mr Thenes out of the presidency still control the Republican party, and that they have never hesitated to do whatever they considered necessary to the perpetuation of the rule of the Republican party. Their motte has been as it was formulated by Mr. SHERMAN-namely, that anything is justifiable in law or morals that secures the defeat of the Democrats.

Will these conspirators bow to the will of the people? We shall see. There is reason for hoping that there may possibly be some western and northwestern sena ters, and perhaps some from the far West, who will think twice before running counter to the wishes of the great masse of the voters. They cannot but recollect that a majority of more than a million o the white voters are Democrats and sup ported Mr. Cleveland in 1888, though he was defeated in the National Electoral College. He received, too, a larger popular vote than his successful opponent. Such considerations, it would seem, must influence some of the Republican Senators.

Anyhow, the triumph of day before yes terday will stiffen the backbones of the Democrats in the repudiated House of Representatives, which will misropresent the people from the first Monday in next month until the 4th of March, 1891. The people have by a large majority made it crats in the House of Representatives in all their filibustering efforts to save the country from the evils of contemplated Republican legislation, and will justify them in breaking a quorum whenever th interests of the public may demand such action on their part. We take it for granted that there will be no more halting between two opinions on the part of the Democrati representatives, but that they will face the enemy boldly, having, as they well know they have, the bone and sinew of the country at their backs.

But how will the results of the election of this week affect the fortunes of the several Democratic aspirants to the presidency Well, we might speculate on the subject. and indulge in a good many guesses, and plausible ones at that. But we forbear to go fully into this question at present. It can do nobody any harm, however, for us to say what everybody feels to be true, that the victory of Tammany Hall in New York was a victory also for Hull.

The Work of the Press. All honor to the orators, committeemen and other party-workers whose labors achieved the victory of Tuesday. They deserve the handsome things that will be said of them, and we are always ready and rilling to be the vehicle to convey the public appreciation of such deserving men.

We beg leave, however, to say a word
also for the newspaper folks—the editors, reporters, and correspondents. Without their help success would have been scarcely They gave it not in a perfunctory y, but heartily and freely. Where akers addressed scores of voters y reached hundreds. Inherited Disease.

Doubtless crime is often committed from the mere love of it.

The identity of "Jack the Ripper" remains undiscovered, so we do not know what impelled him to the commission of his atrocious crimes. Little doubt he was insane, his actions controlled by an abnormal condition of the mind; it is plain none of the ordinary reasons for crime prevailed in his case. He was, perhaps, a victim of some hereditary taint, which drove him to acts against which his will revolted and from which, in his rational moments, his soul recoiled in horror.

A French novelist of realism makes the hero of a late novel of such a character. He was a locomotive engineer, a thorough. Congress and in bad standing with his party. No consulship awaits him. In vain will he sigh to be a bureau chief. The Administration will give him nothing. He may perhaps make, or threaten to make, a contest, but it will have no other purpose than to enable him to lay hold of the amount of money usually voted to contest-himself he is safe. But one night she meets him with gleaming throat bare; the uncontrollable impulse seizes him; he cannot resist; as she throws her loving arms about him he thrusts the knife into her neck, and—she falls, a victim to the madness of tainted blood.

Fortunately for the victims of ordinary forms of inherited disease, they may protect themselves before it obtains dominance in the system. Inherited Kidney-Disease is especially dangerous, but may be successfully resisted. "In 1833 I was so near death's door with an inherited and complicated case of Bright's disease," writes James H. Dove, 217 Baldwin street, Alpena, Mich., August 11, 1890, "which had baffled all remedies and medical assistance obtainable, that I was given up by friends and physicians as beyondall recovery. In this extremity I was induced to try Warner's Safe Cure, which very soon gave me relief, and led me to persevere in its use until I again became able to attend to my business. My case is well known in this community and I feel fully warranted in recommending Warner's Safe Cure in cases of kidney-disease, knowing full well that I would long since have been in my grave had it not been for the use of this remedy."

Men and women inherit genius, talent, all mental and physical qualities; and it is now well established that all ribases of physical as well as mental disease are transmissible.
